

2. Title of the practice: Empowerment of Women for a Better Future

2.1 Objectives:

The Women's Cell of Joya Gogoi College has been trying to be active since 2004 with the following objectives:

- To create an inclusive and equitable society where women are valued, respected, and empowered, and where gender equality is not just a goal, but a lived reality for all.
- To empower the female students by enhancing their understanding of issues related to women.
- To organize awareness programs and mentorship opportunities dealing with personal, emotional, or psychological challenges.

2.2 The context:

The establishment of a Women's Cell within the institution located in a rural area can be considered a best practice for promoting gender equality, providing support, and addressing issues by organizing awareness programs related to women. Most of the students enrolled in the college belong to the Below the Poverty line (BPL) family, and the percentage of Female students is about 50%. Lack of awareness of the issues of women due to socio-economic constraints and educational backwardness can be a major threat to a safe and inclusive learning environment for Female students as well as to society. In this context, the women's cell of the College has designed several programs to empower Female students and women of nearby areas.

With the vision of empowering the Female students of the College and Women of nearby villages, the college under the banner of this cell has undertaken several programs which are listed below:

- The cell has been felicitating women from diverse fields with a significant contribution to their community each year as a part of the “International Women’s Day” celebration.
- During the various programs, the cell invites luminaries from different fields to share their valuable insights with the female students of our college and the local women.
- The cell has been organizing programs inculcating women’s physical & mental health, capacity building, and economic empowerment.
- A Self-defence training program for female students has been organized.
- A clothing donation scheme is being initiated under the banner of the cell to donate clothes to the poor and needy people.

2.4 Evidence of Success:

The programs undertaken by the women’s cell have increased the awareness of the physical and mental health issues of the female students of the college as well as the women of nearby areas. A positive attitude, more participation in extracurricular activities, and free interaction with teachers and students are major changes in the attitude of female students at our college. The Women of the nearby villages sell vegetables from their kitchen gardens, handloom products, and the local foods prepared by them in a platform under the title “Exhibition Cum Sale” provided by the college on “International Women’s Day, 2024.

2.5 Problems:

1. Lack of proper funds and limited resources is an obstacle in front of the Women’s cell.
2. To overcome the social stigma of women's issues.
